

Are Carers Equal?

Scotland's Carers Strategy has recognised carers as equal partners in the provision of care.

But what does this mean?

Are carers really equal or are they disadvantaged by their caring role?

We are asking carers and local carer organisations to take part in a Scotland wide survey on Carer Equality from June 2011 to June 2012.

We want you to tell us if you have faced discrimination or unequal treatment in your everyday life, perhaps at work, when using public services or when trying to access support.

We will use this information when working with the Scottish Government to plan for a more equal future for carers.

To access the survey, or for more information, go to: www.carersnet.org

You can also ask for more details and a paper copy of the survey at your local Carers Centre or by phoning 01786 825529.

Thank you for your support!
